

STOP this HORRENDOUS CRIME!!!!

Do you believe that animal testing should be performed? Only a fool would think that animals should be tested on. Animals will be injured during the testing process, they shouldn't be treated this way!

Firstly, the results of tests on animals will always be different than on humans. All the scientists that do tests on animals should know that the results will be not be the same as with humans. It is crazy to think that just because they get good results on animals that they can put their products on sale. How do they know that humans won't have a reaction to the product?

Think about this, do you honestly believe that these poor, defenseless animals don't get hurt by these tests? Well, if you do, you're wrong. Animals go through being poked and prodded by needles and getting poison put into their bodies. How would you feel if you were locked up in a cage and lathered in weird lotions and potions all day, every day?

Thirdly and finally, animals should not be treated like test subjects. How would you like it if you were being experimented on like your feelings meant nothing? You would most likely feel completely miserable and depressed. This isn't a fair life for anyone, humans, or animals.

In conclusion, this is why everyone should believe that animal testing should not be performed. The results on animals will be different from the results on humans. The animals will certainly feel pain throughout these tests, and they are locked in little cages. So join me in the fight to release these poor, helpless animals.
